and an aunt, Mrs. Anna Gessert, was also wounded. The wife died two hours later.

Find Gunman in Cornfield

Jones escaped and was captured two days later in a cornfield just outside the city limits.

Arraigned by a grand jury last fall on a charge of murder, Jones' attorneys, both of whom were appointed by the court, succeeded in securing a quashing of the indictment on a technicality. The March grand jury again indicted the negro but because the prosecution had not sought a continuance of the case, the prisoner was permitted to take advantage of his constitutional right.

The prisoner cannot be brought to trial again on the original indictment according to attorneys, but he was arrested last evening on a charge of assault with intent to kill as a result of wounds inflicted on an aunt, Mrs.
Anna Gessert, of Freeport, the same evening his wife was killed. Jones is again in jail, held without bonds.

RECORD BURIAL
PLACES HEROES
STATE'S WISH

Registrars Requested to Insist on Such Information

The military and naval department of the State of Illinois is, in accordance with an act of the State Legislature approved June 21, 1917, collecting, compiling and reporting a record of the burial places of all soldiers, sailors, marines and army nurses who have served the United States in any war and causing to be erected at their graves the headstones furnished free by the United States government.

The Superintendent of the Bureau in charge of this work recently check-ed the records in the Division of Vital Statistics of this department and reports that the question printed on the left hand margin of the prescribed Certificate of Death, i. e., "Has decedent ever served in military or naval service of U. S.?" is not answered on a majority of the death certificates on file.

It is, therefore, the wish of this department that each local, deputy and sub-registrar require that this question be answered, "Yes," "No" or "Unknown," on every death certificate when received from the undertaker or other person, and before a burial permit is issued, in order that all who have served our country may receive just and equal honor and recognition of their valiant service.

CONSTABULARY
UNIT IN THIS CITY PLANNED

State Organizers are Here to Form Unit
of Fifty Men

H. H. Delaney and R. R. Dillon, state organizers of the State Constabulary, are in Dixon arranging for the perfecting of a local unit to consist of fifty members, to be selected from the business and professional men of the city. The State Constabulary is not a new project, according to the organizers, and while it has been in existence for many years, units have not been organized in the smaller towns and cities of the state. A movement is now on foot to organize the entire state.

The Dixon unit of the State Constabulary will be headed by efficient and experienced officers, according to the organizers. Sheriff Elliott C. Rie-ley will doubtless be one of the heads and instructors.

"The Constabulary is a non-political,
non-sectarian organization, taking no part in labor disputes and with the purpose of enforcing the criminal code of the state of Illinois," said one of the organizers in explaining the purpose of the unit. "Only the highest class of citizenship is accepted into the organization and we expect to install a unit consisting of not less than 50 members in Dixon, electing business and professional men. Supression of crime, the enforcement of the criminal code and aiding and assisting the local officers in every way possible to bring about the enforcement of law is the sole purpose of this organization."

PLAYGROUNDS—

(By Hal Cochran.)
Consider the place where the kiddies all go; the spot where they have heaps of fun. It's down at the playgrounds, and say, you should know what good all the playgrounds have done.

You'll find mother worries when Tommy or Sue are playin' around on the street. And frankly, when mother has work she must do, this worryin' isn't so sweet.

But, when she can tie to the playgrounds each day, where youngsters are raisin' the deuce, she knows they'll be safe in their antics and play, so gladly she turns them all loose.

The sand piles, the teeters, the slides and the swings, are great for the kiddies, no doubt. But think of the pleasure to mother it brings when she knows that they're safe, though they're out.

You get a great thrill when the air's filled with glees, for it's fine to see children have fun. The voice from the playground is pleasing to me, for it's something worth while 'neath the sun.

HOUSEHOLD FRUGALITIES—

A Fruit Sauce.
An excellent fruit sauce is made by thickening the sirup from canned fruit with cornstarch.

Coffee Loses Aroma.
The longer coffee is kept after roasting, particularly if it is ground, the more of its aroma it loses.

The Best Iced Tea.
The best iced tea is made by pouring the hot beverage over ice. To let it cool before it is iced makes it lose its flavor and have a slightly medicinal taste.

To Clean Silver.
To clean silverware moisten a soft cloth with water and dip it in fine whiting and apply. After it has dried rub off with a soft cloth and polish with chamois skin. Never scour silver plated knives or forks.

Ladies St. James Missionary Society

The Ladies' of St. James Missionary society held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Anne Lehman. It was an all-day meeting and there were about thirty members and visitors present and all enjoyed the excellent picnic dinner, with chicken and noodles as the chief entrée. At 2 o'clock the program opened with a song, followed with Scripture reading and prayer by the president. After some Victrola music the lesson for the month was taken up, the title, "Wedding Bells Around the World." Mrs. Lehman read of wedding bells in South America; a monologue, "A Japanese Bride," was given by Mrs. Bahen and the "Story of a Chinese Bride," was given by Mrs. Lulu Patterson. A letter from Mrs. Lottie Wyse Norman of Japan was read by Mrs. Bahen; also a letter from Mrs. Annetta S. Wold, thanking the society for the money sent for the thread lact industry in India. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Roll call followed. After the usual business the meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's prayer. The next meeting is to be with Mrs. Ida Royster.

Shredded pineapple, spinach with poached eggs on toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—
Cream of salmon soup, graham sandwiches, strawberry ice, sponge cake, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Baked mackerel, scalloped potatoes, string bean salad, cheese sandwiches, floating island, rye bread, milk, coffee.

The cream of salmon soup is a rich mixture suitable for a summer luncheon for guests or the family. If the whipped cream is not used, a child six years of age may be given the cream soup.

Tiny cheese sandwiches should be put into a very hot oven to toast the bread and melt the cheese. These are served with the dinner salad.

Cream of Salmon Soup.
Four cups thin cream, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 1/2 cups minced cooked salmon, 1 cup whipping cream, 1/4 cup sifted salmon, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

Melt butter carefully and stir in flour. Do not let mixture discolor. Stir in milk and bring to the boiling point. Boil three minutes. Season with salt and pepper and add 1 1/2 cup salmon rubbed through a sieve. Let this mixture come to the boiling point and boil up once. Divide into six cups. Whip cream until stiff and fold in 1/4 cup sifted salmon pressed as dry as possible. Top each cup with whipped cream mixture and sprinkle with parsley. The whipped cream is delicious if 1 tablespoon lemon juice is added with the fish.

Pretty Wedding in Harmon Wednesday

A wedding of unusual interest to the people of Harmon was solemnized in St. Flannen's church in that village Wednesday morning, when Miss Henrietta McDermott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McDermott, became the bride of John McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McDonald of Rock Falls.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, as the beautiful strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Theodore Fitzpatrick, floated through the beautiful church announcing the coming of the bride, Miss McDermott, attired in a lovely creation of satin and crepe, with full length veil caught at the brow with orange blossoms, passed down the center aisle, attended by her sister, Miss Margaret McDermott, as maid of honor.

Miss Margaret wore a pretty gown of orchid crepe de chine with hat and accessories in harmony, and both bride and maid of honor carried roses. They were followed closely by the bridegroom and his brother, Joseph McDonald, who was best man.

At the chancel, which was laden with June roses, they were met by Rev. Father Moore, pastor of the church, who read the vows which united the lives of these splendid young people. The ceremony was followed by the celebration of nuptial mass, with Mrs. Theodore Fitzpatrick singing and playing her own accompaniment. During the offertory she sang Ave Maria.

Following the service the bridal couple received the best wishes and congratulations of many friends, and at the door of the church they found someone had been busy with their automobile, for it was adorned with cowbells, tin cans, etc., and a large placard announced the fact of their just being married. The car and occupants were driven through the business section that all could read.

After the guests, which were enjoyed by all, the wedding party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a three-course wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives. Mrs. C. C. Ackert of Walton, and Mrs. George Burhenn and Mrs. Orville Egler of Dixon catered the breakfast, while Miss Margaret and Vernie McDermott and Miss Irene Fitzsimmons served. The tables were decorated with roses and ferns.

In the late afternoon Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left for Chicago, Niagara Falls and other eastern points, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will make their residence in Dixon.

The high esteem in which they are held was manifest in the many fine wedding gifts showered upon them. Mrs. McDonald is a lovely girl with an unusually friendly disposition and is beloved by all who know her. She has been one of the most popular young ladies in the county, and no dance or party in the vicinity of Harmon was complete without her presence. Mr. McDonald is a very genial young man and has a large circle of friends in the Twin Cities. The best wishes of all who know the young people follow them on their journey through life together.

In the last three days two American League teams have scored 13 runs in one inning—Philadelphia against Cleveland on Monday and Detroit against New York yesterday.

Ty Cobb thought it was a holiday all over the land yesterday. "Ah yes, it's Bunker Hill Day," or something to that effect, he murmured when coaching in the sixth inning of the game at the Yank Stadium. "The whites of their eyes. The Yanks are coming. Shoot."

When the inning had ended three New York pitchers had tried to pitch without getting anybody out, six Tigers had made base hits, one of them a booming home run with the bases full by the manager himself, seven Tigers had walked, eleven runs had scored without a putout being made, 13 scores had been tallied in all, every Detroit had scored at least once and

ATTACKS GASOLINE PRICE.

When Senator McMaster was governor of South Dakota he made war on gasoline prices, established state filling stations and brought down the cost to the consumer. Some other western state followed his plan. Ultimately the prices returned to their old figure, but McMaster again is on the war path. Speaking at Yankton in his state, he charged that dealers are making 59 percent on gasoline, and issued the following statement:

"From April 15 to May 15, the state of South Dakota paid on an average of 10.15 cents a gallon for gasoline at the refineries. The freight rate to Yankton is 3.53 cents and there is an inspection fee of .10 of a cent, making the total cost of gasoline 13.78 cents per gallon, laid down in the city of Yankton during that 30-day period.

"The selling price of Standard oil was 25 cents. Deducting the 3 cents state tax, which is paid in advance by the public, makes a gross profit of 8.22 cents a gallon or 59 percent. If the selling price of Gasoline Alley (a private filling station in Yankton) was 23 cents during that period their gross profit was 45 percent and not 19 percent (as was claimed)."

The senator holds that the profit is out of proportion to that on other commodities of which there is great quantity sold. He looks upon gasoline not as a luxury, but as a necessity, written into the cost of living of every individual, whether he buys it at the service station or pays for it indirectly in the cost of managing a household.

To people in other lines of business it appears that the overhead cost of distribution of gasoline by establishing stations on every prominent corner is far in excess of what it should be. Imagine a railroad establishing coal and water facilities for locomotives at every station, and the public paying interest on the investment and wages of the man-power involved.

PROMOTE NEW RAILROAD.

Articles of incorporation for the Quincy and Northwestern Electric railway have been issued by the secretary of state. According to the declaration in these papers the railroad is to be operated from Quincy through the counties of Adams, Hancock, Henderson and Warren to Monmouth.

Although it is designed as an electric railway the papers provide that it may use steam or other mechanical power.

Capitalization is placed at $1,200,000 and the main office is in Chicago. Incorporation are New York and Chicago men.

To say the least, if these capitalists propose to construct a railroad between Quincy and Monmouth they are optimists who can see roses "where they ain't."

In these days the battle has been to keep bondholders from selling track and equipment for junk. The territory described is dominated by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. The state has a hard road south from Monmouth, entering Quincy at a right angle. The $100,000,000 bond issue authorizes a shorter route diagonally, between the two cities.

The Monmouth Atlas does not enthuse over the prospect as it might have done twenty years ago. Its brief comment is:

"The line would run through a rich farming country, which is already served by branch lines of the C. B. & Q. As it has been many years since any new railroad construction in this part of the country has been projected, the new electric line will be watched with interest."

SILK-STOCKINGED WEST.

Returning to Washington from Minnesota with President Coolidge, the Associated Press correspondent reported:

Mr. Coolidge was impressed by the appearance of the people, the fact that the women were smartly dressed and there was a generous display of silk stockings, which were taken by him to mean that the northwest was prospering.

What, may we ask, did the president and the correspondent expect? Did they think the women of the west wrap themselves in blankets like Indians? Perhaps the reporter was surprised to observe that the whites now outnumber the Indians in Minnesota.

Prosperity or no prosperity, the women of the west, like the women of the east, will have their silk stockings. Rare are the circumstances under which they will sacrifice them. An oil station manager admits having traded gasoline for silk stockings, but the woman must have had a pair to spare.

If the president had looked at the stand of corn in the fields he could have measured better the prosperity of the west than by attaching importance to the "generous display" of silk stockings, to which his attention probably was directed by the reporters.

Among the bills killed in the Illinois general assembly during the last ten days are the women's jury bills and the measure providing for an increase in salary of legislators to $5000 per annum. Only 51 votes were mustered in the house of representatives for the higher salary. The women's jury bills were killed in a committee.

Crippled by illness when a freshman, Clifford Lileben of Burlington stayed at home, took instruction by radio from University of Iowa. Lying in bed a few days ago he heard his final examination questions come through the air, and he wrote the answers. He is the first radio graduate of the university.

Would it not be starting it, in the present troubles in China, which threaten to involve Russia and Japan, American sympathy would be with Japan.

Yet that is just what happened early in the century, at a time when Japan had scarcely arrived, while Russia was still a full member of the family of nations, with a government whose evils were not contagious.

Now with Japan powerful and normal in government and institutions, while Russia is regarded as an international outlaw, at economic war with the world, there is only race prejudice and business rivalry to keep European and American sympathy from Japan.

Of course the real side to take is that of China.

Whatever the temporary government. Whatever the temporary government. Their permanent interests are ours.

There must be no domination of China by any one outside power, and if necessity should compel a temporary guardianship by all the powers, it would be tolerable only in the hope that they would jealously watch each other.

All the Chinese people themselves ask of any government, native or foreign, is that it let them alone. A government just strong enough to do that, and to make everybody else do it, is ideal for China.

At any rate, China must be neither the tool of Japan nor the victim of Russia.

WAR IN WEST WOULD CONCERN AMERICA

The main fear, if the trouble grows, is the involvement of America.

Direct war between Russia and Japan is unlikely. It is cheaper to back two Chinese tuchuns in an ostensibly civil war.

But even in that, America is necessarily concerned.

We have no tradition of aloofness across the Pacific, as we once had across the Atlantic. Even Washington's much-misquoted warning was against "entangling alliances" in Europe, not in Asia.

THE GNOME AND THE PEARLS

"Are you still there?" shrieked Tweekanose as he spied him

"Do you know a story about goblins or elves or gnomes?" asked Nick. "They are always up to mischief."

"Mi O Mi laughed and flung his leeks. "So they are!" he declared. "And like folk who are always doing unkind things themselves, they are the quickest to complain if anything happens to them. I'll tell you the story of Tweekanose the Gnome and how he lost his jewelry."

"Jewelry?" cried Nancy. "How could a gnome have jewelry?" "Well, he could—and does," declared Mi O Mi. "For one thing, as gnomes live under the ground, they are in a fair way to find things—rubies and turquoise and emeralds and even diamonds. Everything except pearls, for they are found at the bottom of the sea."

"But strange as it may seem, it was pearls that Tweekanose lost. Fear shirt studs. And he had neither found them under the ground or at the bottom of the sea. He had found them on the bureau of a bedroom when he went to wake a baby. He was always waking babies, the rascal!"

"Yes, sir, there they lay like mistletoe berries, gleaming soft and white in the moonlight. "The next thing you know, the bad little gnome had slipped them into his trouser pocket and skipped off. "He thought none of those pearl studs than he did of his left eye at most. He laid them away in milkweed cotton in his stand drawer. No one knew where he kept them. And he never told a soul—not even Mrs. Flatfinger who came to do his washing. "Then one night someone got in and stole them!"

"When Tweekanose found that they were gone, he let out a screech like a fire whistle. And that roused all the others. Crookabone and Snip Sciss-power ourselves. If Japan and Russia fight, or investigate Chinese factions to fight over China, we have either to stand aloof and let the winner dominate China, or else get in, as we always have done, to see that nobody dominates China."

The four-power pact does not bind Russia, and if Japan claims that this makes action by her necessary, we have either to prevent that Japanese action, thereby leaving the field to Russia, or else see that Japan does not go in alone.

This does not mean "go in" by actual war necessarily. But if China, with or without war, becomes anybody's football, we are in that game.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHRENS

telephone conversation came back to him.

They drove the car into an alleyway and as they rounded the corner going in, Syd dropped off, and crouched behind a barrel until the driver had himself entered the building.

He said he felt he should have telephoned to the police, but it was very late and he knew no place to do this. Feeling that the emergency was great he followed as quietly as he could into the warehouse.

There he dropped in shadow behind a half open door.

Zoe was lying on the floor in the middle of a half circle composed of five men—one of which pulled her roughly to a sitting posture. Her head, he said, was bleeding badly.

The poor girl did not seem to realize where she was and dropped back on the floor when the men let go of her.

Syd heard them asking over and over again, "Come across! Where the— did you put them?"

All the men spoke the argot of the underworld except one who had the manners and the intonation of a gentleman.

While he was standing there wondering what he should do Syd said that one of the men rushed forward to the helpless girl, saying: "She won't come to. I think you croaked her, Jim."

The other man turned with a snarl and knocked him down. Immediately there was a terrible melee. Syd thought he could get away with Zoe in the scramble, but the one who seemed to be the gentleman saw him and Syd was caught.

DR. DORNBLASER WRITES OF WORK IN GERMAN CITY

Former Dixon Minister
Writes to Chicago
Paper Recently

Rev. W. H. Carwardine, religious editor of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, wrote the following article for his paper, which is of interest here on account of the large local acquaintance of Dr. Thomas Frank Dornblaser, for many years pastor of the Lutheran church of Dixon and who is now, at the age of 84 years, pastor of the Nowawes Free church, near Berlin, Germany.

The article follows:

An interesting letter has just come to the Herald and Examiner addressed to the writer from the Rev. Dr. Thomas Dornblaser, pastor for many years of the Grace, Evangelical Lutheran church of this city and influential in Lutheran church circles. Strange to say, Dr. Dornblaser writes to ask, "Who is Bishop Neulsen of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America?" He says the "German daily newspapers are circulating a letter written by Bishop Neulsen in which he denounces the Dawes plan and stating that if the same should be carried out, it would ruin Germany for all time."

We are glad to inform Dr. Dornblaser that Bishop John L. Neulsen is one of the best known and honored among Methodists, especially German Methodists, in this country and Europe. Evidently he was misquoted in his address at Zurich, Switzerland.

Plan is Feasible.

Dr. Dornblaser goes on to say: "The Dawes plan is possible of execution if Germany gets down to business and quits haggling about poverty and bankruptcy. As long as her 65,000,000 people are able to spend 2,600,000,000 gold marks annually for beer and other intoxicating drinks and about as much for tobacco it is rather presumptuous to plead poverty. "Since the election of Field Marshal von Hindenburg as president of the German Republic there are signs of improvement in various directions, and a marked revival of confidence in business circles. "In the towns between Potsdam and Berlin there is a building boom on at this time. New buildings are going up, extending for ten or more blocks in the larger towns.

Wages are Good.

Here is something worth reading for Chicagoans who are paying high rents. We had better all go to Germany. "Wages are good," writes Dr. Dornblaser, "compared with the reign of the Kaiser. And rents are about one-fourth what they are in Chicago. We have here five rooms in good location for $10 per month. "There are more people of leisure than I have ever come across in my own country of America. You do not see many loafers, but many people seem to have an easy time. It is customary with these people to take a nap of several hours after dinner. Then they have their afternoon coffee, tea, or beer, as the case may be. "They do more sleeping by day and enouraging by night than any people I have come across. I have reason to know for I have slept in close proximity to a beer garden for several years.

Free Churches Help.

"The free churches in Germany have set apart a week in May to counteract the drink traffic. In one of the state churches in Berlin a temperance meeting was in progress when it was suddenly interrupted by a representative of the liquor interests who demanded of the pastor what authority he had to conduct such a meeting in a state church which was supported by general taxation? "The breweries are heavily taxed to support the church, and no pastor has a right to use his pulpit to injure their business. "This is one of the best arguments I have ever come across in favor of our system of free churches and free pulpits in America."

I had not gone a hundred yards before I deeply repented my rashness. I may have said somewhere in this chronicle that I am too imaginative to be a really courageous man, but that I have an overpowering fear of seeming afraid. This was the power which now carried me onwards. I simply could not sink back with nothing done. Even if my comrades should not have missed me, and should never know of my weakness, there would still remain some intolerable self-shame in my own soul. And yet I shuddered at the position in which I found myself, and would have given all I possessed at that moment to have been honorably free of the whole business.

It was dreadful in the forest. The trees grew so thickly and their foliage spread so widely that I could see nothing of the moonlight save that here and there the high branches made a tangled fringe against the starry sky. As the eyes became more used to the obscurity one learned that there were different degrees of darkness among the trees—that some were dimly visible, while between and among them there were coal-black shadowed patches, like the mouths of caves, from which I shrank in horror as I passed. I thought of the despairing yell of the tortured iguanodon—that dreadful cry which had echoed through the woods. I thought, too, of the glimpse I had in the light of Lord John's torch of that bloated, warily, blood-slavering muzzle. Even now I was on its hunting-ground. At any instant it might spring upon me from the shadows—this nameless and horrible monster. I stopped, and, picking a cartridge from my pocket, I opened the breach of my gun. As I touched the lever my heart leaped within me. It was the shotgun, not the rifle, which I had taken!

Again the impulse to return swept over me. Here, surely, was a most excellent reason for my failure—one for which no one would think the less of me. But again the foolish pride fought against that very word. I could not—must not—fail. After all, my rifle would probably have been as useless as a shot-gun against such dangers as I might meet. If I were to go back to camp to change my weapon I could hardly expect to enter and leave again without being seen. In that case there would be explanations, and my attempt would no longer be all my own. After a little hesitation, then, I screwed up my courage and continued under my way, my useless gun under my arm.

The darkness of the forest had been alarming, but even worse was the white, still flood of moonlight in the open glade of the iguanodons. Hidden among the bushes, I looked out at it. None of the great brutes were in sight. Perhaps the tragedy which had befallen one of them had driven them from their feeding-ground. In the misty, silvery night I could see no sign of any living thing. Taking courage, therefore, I slipped rapidly across it, and among the jungle on the farther side I picked up once again the brook which was my guide. It was a cheery companion, gurgling and chuckling as it ran, like the dear old trout-stream in the West Country where I have fished at night in my boyhood. So long as I followed it down I must come to the lake, and so long as I followed it back I must come to the camp. Often I had to lose sight of it on account of the tangled brushwood, but I was always within earshot of its tinkling and splash.

As one descended the slope the woods became thinner, and bushes, with occasional high trees, took the place of the forest. I could make good progress, therefore, and I could see without being seen.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief? Why cutting and operations fail? Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel? Do you know that there is a harmless remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Rowland's Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—Adv.

DON'T BE BALD

Thin haired readers should use Parisian Sage hair tonic and scalp treatment at once and escape being bald. It's guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching scalp, banish all dandruff and make hair grow or money refunded. Rowland's Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, and all druggists sell it. Remember the name—Parisian Sage—for hair and scalp.—Adv.

Cheaper Cuts of Meat Give Bigger Values for Money

Urbana, June 17.—Housewives who buy the cheaper cuts of beef, pork and other meats are the ones who get the most food value out of the money which they spend for this class of food, said J. H. Longwell of the meat's division of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. On the other hand, those who buy the more expensive cuts pay dearly for what they get, he declared.

"The nutritive value of the cheaper cuts of meat is equal to that of the more expensive ones, pound for pound of meat, but these cuts must be sold at a low price, sometimes below wholesale, because there is only a light demand for them," he explained. "Those who buy the more desirable cuts pay dearly for the food they get because butchers must get enough out of these cuts to make up for the entire carcass."

"For the most part, hindquarter cuts are in the greatest demand and the rest of the carcass is left for the butcher to dispose of, and the result of meat like the round, loin and rib of beef, which make up only about 48 per cent of the carcass, must be sold so high that the average retail cost of them is more than three-fourths of the total retail cost of the carcass."

"Hindquarter cuts are in greatest demand because they are best known and make the leanest and tenderest steaks and chops. On the other hand, forequarter cuts from the shoulder and plate are more highly flavored than the hindquarter cuts. The chief objection to them, however, is the fact that although they contain less bone, they contain more connective tissue."

than the hindquarter cuts and therefore are tougher, but this only means that they require more careful preparation. If butchers could dispose of these cuts more rapidly, they could operate on a narrow margin and thus lower the price of all meat to the consumer."

NOT A STEP DOG.

A young five-year-old friend of ours who had been permitted to play with a neighbor's dog recently acquired a canine animal of her own. "Now," she announced with satisfaction, "I have a dog of my own—and not just a step-dog!"—New York Herald Tribune.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, married DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children.

She refuses to do her own housework and hires a maid. But Dick has to let the maid go. Gloria has swamped him with debts.

She becomes infatuated with an actor, STANLEY WAYBURN. When he leaves town to go to New York, Gloria follows him. But he spurns her. Then she tries to get a job as a chorus girl and fails. Finally she comes home to Dick. He takes her back but not as his wife.

Gloria begins to suspect he is in love with his secretary, SUSAN BRIGGS. Dick stays out late one night, and Gloria is sure he spent the evening with Miss Briggs. But next day she learns that he was at the home of DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, who had killed himself because of the love affair between his wife, MAY, and JIM CAREWE.

The breach between Gloria and Dick widens. Gloria packs up and leaves him, finally. One afternoon, filled with homesickness, she breaks into their house and puts fresh flowers in the vases. She realizes at last that she loves Dick. When she goes back to her parents' home, her mother gives her a letter from Dick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

GLORIA'S heart beat fast. A telegram coming in the dead of night couldn't have startled her more than this letter from Dick.

What was in it? What did he have to say to her?

Her fingers pressed the envelope. There seemed to be several folds of paper within it.

But without opening it, Gloria slipped it into her apron pocket. She could feel the eyes of her father and mother watching her. She knew that they were waiting for her to open the letter . . . to tell them what Dick had written.

But, somehow or other, she wanted to be all alone when she read that letter—

There was just a wild chance that Dick was asking her to come back to him, in it. "And if he wants me, I'll go home this very night!" Gloria promised herself.

She raised her eyes to the cuckoo clock that hung above the sideboard. Half past seven! . . . In another hour or two she might be in Dick's arms, again!

With an effort she went on talking. "I saw May Seymour this afternoon. Mother. She's going away. Says she'll never come back here as long as she lives."

Gloria's mother forgot all about the letter in this exciting piece of news.

"Well, I should just think she would go away! I should think she'd be ashamed to show her face around here, anywhere!" she said, with spirit. "I always told you she was no good, didn't I?"

What was the name of that man she used to run around with, right under her poor husband's nose?

"Jim Carewe," Gloria answered. "And what do you think? He's going to be married to some little girl just out of school, next fall. The engagement was announced in the paper the other day."

An expression that plainly said "I told you so!" flashed across Mrs. Gordon's face. She was "Mrs. Grundy" herself, at that moment.

"I never saw it fall to happen!" she cried. "Men will run around and have a good time with women like May Seymour. But when they set out to marry some girl, they still think the moon's made of green cheese!"

Gloria laughed. "Mother, you amuse me," she said. "Nobody thinks the moon's made of green cheese, any more. Flappers of seventeen know more than their grandmothers knew at seventy."

BRIDGE LETTING.

The Lee County Road and Bridge committee hereby advertise the letting of concrete bridges in county highways as follows:

(1) THE McDERMOTT BOX CULVERT in the "Dad Joe Trail," near the Henry McDermott residence, Town of Marion, Culvert measures

"Here's an ad that looks pretty good to me," she said to her mother.

MRS. GORDON shook her head. "Of course, if you think that knowing how to shimmy or roll a cigarette is knowing anything, you're right," she said, "but we old fashioned women weren't so slow. When I was your age I could run a house all myself . . . washing, ironing, baking. Everything!"

"Yes, and she used to make all my shirts, too," Gloria's father added, mildly. "And your little dresses, Gloria. Remember how cute she used to look in those pink gingham dresses, Mother?"

Mrs. Gordon nodded. Her blue eyes filled with tears as she looked across the table at Gloria. This was a terrible thing for her . . . this breach between Gloria and Dick. Like a death in the family, almost! That this should have happened to her little Gloria! The little daughter for whom she had worked and prayed for twenty years. . . .

Gloria read her mother's thoughts. She carried her dishes out into the kitchen, and then ran upstairs to her tiny bedroom.

With shaking fingers she tore open the envelope.

She took out the paper that was in it . . . a double sheet, folded around a check. A check for $50. That was all.

There wasn't a word written on the paper . . . not a word! Just the money . . . the check. As if money were all she wanted!

"So that's the letter I've been having chills and fever about, for the last fifteen minutes!" Nothing but a measly check!" she said, ruefully.

She sank down on the edge of her bed, turning the slip of paper over and over in her fingers. Then she looked into

Read this Remarkable Testimony Regarding Results from Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Norfolk, Virginia. — "If you only knew how many women and girls have taken your medicine by bearing my testimony, it would seem wonderful to you. Every day and every chance I have I advise some one to try it. It was in June, 1904, when I had given up ever getting well, that I wrote to you. My husband went to the drug-store and brought the Vegetable Compound home to me. In a few days I began to improve and I have often taken it since. I am now passing through the Change of Life and still stick by it and am enjoying wonderful health. When I first started with your medicines I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more local treatments unless I went to the hospital and was operated on. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is." — Mrs. J. A. JONES, 317 Colley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia.
